Certification of Enrollment

Certifications consist of written verification of a variety of student enrollment-related data such as date(s) of attendance full-time/part-time status, and degree(s) received. Currently enrolled and former students can access BisonWeb for an Enrollment Verification Certificate. Some certifications may be furnished directly to various individuals or agencies such as prospective employers, official investigators, lending institutions, or government agencies. Howard University has authorized the National Student Clearinghouse to provide enrollment information for such requests. The National Student Clearinghouse can be contacted at:
