

ANAT-209: Comp Primate Anatomy

This course is an exploration of the relationship between primate anatomical form and function from an evolutionary perspective. The course is designed to demonstrate how the primate body form is adapted to its many functions, with an emphasis on adaptations to diet and locomotion

Credits: 3

Program: Anatomy