

CHEG-232: Environmental Chemistry

Environmental chemistry is an introduction to chemical processes that regulate the composition of air, water, and soil. Attention is paid to understanding chemical equilibrium and kinetics of natural systems and how they are influenced by human actions.

Credits: 3

Program: Chemical Engineering