

CSCI-532: Advanced Operations Research

This course will acquaint students with the formulation, solution, and implementation of operations research models for analyzing complex systems in industry or government, also familiarizing students with special techniques of the field such as linear programming and network analysis. Topics include Simplex Method, Duality Theory, and Network Analysis.

Credits: 3

Program: Computer Science