

CUGW CE-6601: Open Channel Flow

A rigorous mathematical study of one-dimensional flow in open channels, including uniform, gradually varied, rapidly varied, tidal, and flood flows. Analytical and finite difference solutions to the governing conservation equations developed with aid of the computer, and stable channel design addressed.

Credits: 3

Program: Computer Science