

EDUC-501: Diversity in American Schools

This course explores the intersections between education, democracy and diversity in American schooling. Students will develop an awareness of race, ethnicity, class, gender and other lines of difference, and explore how schooling might be structured in ways that build equity and justice.

Credits: 3

Program: Curriculum & Instruction