EECE-507: Computer Aided Power System

Computer application to operation, control and analysis of power systems. Load flow, load forecasting, unit commitment, load scheduling, network modeling, fault study, transient stability analysis, reliability, future expansion of systems, security and contingency analysis, on-line dispatch techniques and state estimation in power systems.
Credits: 3
Program: Electric & Computer Engineering