

NUCP-507: Family Primary Care of Women: Theory & Practicum

This course focuses on the promotion, maintenance, and restoration of health for women during the childbearing years, their newborns, and their families. Through the use of a multi-sectoral approach, and with an emphasis on equitable distribution and appropriate technology, it relates physiological, environmental, cultural, and behavioral factors and issues that impact on the reproductive woman and childbearing.

Credits: 4

Program: Post Master's Certificate Program