

NUTG-313: Lipids

This course aims to help students develop an understanding of the chemistry of lipids, the unique structural and associative properties of lipid molecules which distinguishes them as a class and forms the basis for an understanding of the nutritional biochemistry which describes and seeks to predict the physical and biological functions of lipids in living tissues.

Credits: 3

Program: Graduate Nutritional Science