

PHSC-422: Drug Design in Pharmaceutical Sciences

This course covers the basic principles of how new drugs are discovered with emphasis on lead identification, lead optimization, classification and kinetics of molecules targeting enzymes and receptors, prodrug design and applications, as well as structure-based drug design methods.

Credits: 3

Program: Pharmaceutical Science