

PHYS-252: Remote Sensing of the Atmosphere

Elements of radiative transfer as applied to the upper and lower atmospheres and ocean surface. Both passive and active remote sensing methods are discussed. Satellite technology and applications to the understanding of the Earth and extraterrestrial atmospheres will be discussed.

Credits: 3

Program: Physics