

PSYC-222: Social Psychology of the Individual

There are two components to this course: one is experientially-based and the other is theory-based. These two dimensions will be synthesized in the seminar discussions, readings, and assignments. This will require the ability to learn from experience as well as in-class activities.

Credits: 3

Program: Psychology