

PSYC-391: Clinical Psychology Externship

The externship program is designed for advanced doctoral students in Clinical Psychology, Counseling Psychology, or other related fields who are interested in further developing their clinical skills, building their theoretical knowledge, and working with students in a university counseling center setting. The theoretical perspective of the training program is integrative, with a relational and multicultural focus.

Credits: 2

Program: Psychology