

SOCI-199: Environmental Inequity

The course presents research on distributions of environmental quality and health, enforcement of regulations, access to resources to respond to urban and industrial problems, and the broader political economy of decision-making around environmental and health issues.

Credits: 3

Program: Sociology