XIST-501: Management Statistics and Data Analysis

This course takes a managerial approach to the use of statistical concepts and data analysis. The course covers topics such as descriptive statistics, probability, bayesian analysis, sampling, statistical inference and correlation and regression analysis. Students are expected to be familiar with the use of personal computer, Office Automation Systems, and will use common statistical software.
Credits: 3
Program: Info/Systems Tech (EMBA)