

STMI-345: Field Education I

Theological Field Education is the art of incorporating faith, action, and reflection in preparation for ministry. Contextual learning occurs in field sites such as faith communities or agencies where ministry takes place. Activities and interactions at the field site become the principal sources of reflection and learning. Supplementary formal instruction, classroom peer interaction, and oral/written reflections should be expected. ♦

Credits: 3

Program: Studies in Ministry